ICON

Prof. Israel Kodiaga is the Founder and President of UNIVERSAL BASIC INCOME (UBI Kenya), which advocates for basic income with over 103,000 active online members and more than 200,000 on-ground supporters. He is also the Director General for African Affairs at GUI, affiliated with the Basic Income Earth Network (BIEN). Professionally, he directs Programmes, Research, and Strategic Development at The African Centre for International Studies and serves as a core faculty member at Southern Delta International, specializing in conflict analysis and policy support in Africa. Academically, he holds degrees in Education, History, and Philosophy, and an M.A. in Philosophy of History from Kenyatta University, with further studies in Project Management, Peace Studies, Marketing, Business Administration, an LLM in International Business Law, and a PhD in Strategic Management. He has lectured at several prestigious institutions and is currently a visiting professor and sought-after consultant internationally. An avid reader, researcher, and author, his notable works include "Tribute to an Icon: Reflections on the Life and Times of Nelson Mandela" (2013) and "Dancing with the Dragon: A Critical Analysis of Sino-Africa Relations" (2013). Prof. Kodiaga frequently appears in media, writes prolifically, and speaks as a motivational speaker on topics such as China-Africa relations, democracy in Africa, xenophobia in South Africa, and universal basic income. He also engages in live interviews, radio talk shows, and TV appearances, making him a well-rounded and influential public intellectual.
